Grootfontein

Accommodation at: www.ghaub-namibia.com – Grootfontein

The many rock engravings bear testimony to the fact that humans have inhabited Ghaub and the Otavi mountains for millennia. In fact, the direct ancestors of man roamed this very area. In the early 1990's scientists found fragments of the jawbone, the ulna and finger bones belonging to a Gibbon-sized anthropoid ape that populated wide parts of Africa 13 million years ago. A sensational find: The so-called Otavipithecus namibiensis is the first specimen of an extinct anthropoid ape in the Southern part of Africa.

Or

Rundu

Day 2: Transfer Stay at Shametu River Lodge

Louis and Amori Gerber embarked on an amazing journey a couple of years ago where they were looking for a retirement home to buy in the beautiful surroundings of the Caprivi. Upon arriving in the Caprivi they came across this amazing space where they decided to start Shametu River Lodge. With a lot of hard work and dedication the lodge was built and crafted to where it is today... making their dreams a reality. In recent years Deon and Fritht Gerber joined forces with Louis and Amori, now running of the most amazing lodges in the Caprivi Area.

When driving to the Caprivi, most travellers assume that Divundu, Kavango East, is only a place for a quick stop-over on their way to game parks and fishing tales but what they do not realise is that they are driving thru one of Namibia's most precious hidden gems.

Divundu is filled with the rich culture of the Kavango people – women draped with colourful cloth, Nguni cattle crossing the road every few meters. Children playing in the river and men on the wato's catching dinner with nothing but an earthworm on a hand line. Game parks filled with wildlife.
